the Mountain.. "And what did you decide you want?" liquid. She leaned still closer. I could smell her breath. If she was drunk, it was not on alcohol. "I can take her to those who can." Where he stood it was not wholly dark. The air moved against his face. Far ahead, dim, small, there was a light that was not werelight. He went forward. He had been crawling for a long time now, dragging the right leg, which would not bear his weight. He went forward. He smelled the wind of evening and saw the sky of evening through the branches and leaves of trees. An arched oak root formed the mouth of the cave, no bigger than a man or a badger needed to crawl through. He crawled through. He lay there under the root of the tree, seeing the light fade and a star or two come out among the leaves. There he was well received by King Thoreg, who, after the shattering loss of his fleet, was ready. "No need," he said in that distant way, as if he hardly knew what she was talking about; but then. Sometimes he smiled at her ignorance, but he never sneered at it or reproved it. Like the witch, everything; she had listened; she had been still. He wanted to protect her and knew he could not. remained motionless for a few seconds, then slowly went along the shore, following its uneven. rushed in. The voices of the passengers getting out of their seats were completely drowned in it. Light on crockery, the hearth stones, the table. But nobody sat at the table. His enemy was gone. No wind stirred. The air was soft, the big sail hung slack. Only the western stars faded and added. He dreamed of clouds passing over the shores of islands, and a high, round, green hill that stood. Neither of them had been on Pody. It was a sleepy southern island with a pretty old port town, Telio, built of rosy sandstone, and fields and orchards that should have been fertile. But the lords of Wathort had ruled it for a century, taxing and slave taking and wearing the land and people down. The sunny streets of Telio were sad and dirty. People lived in them as in the wilderness, in tents and lean-tos made of scraps, or shelterless. "Oh, this won't do," Crow said, disgusted, avoiding a pile of human excrement. "These creatures don't have books, Tern!" down on the doorstep, sat down beside them, cleaned his feet with rainwater from the pot by the. But Heleth was shaking his head: "No," he said, "no time. Not your kind of thing." He was more and. There was the silence. Then a fish leapt from the black, shaking water, a white-grey fish. He could eat only in the cell, where they took his gag off. Bread and onions were what they gave. "When he gets himself a girl," Golden said, in answer to whatever it was she had been saying, "he'll be all squared away. Living with the wizards, you know, the way they are, it set him back a bit. Don't worry about Diamond. He'll know what he wants when he sees it!" "You came over the mountain?" spongy plastic. It did not look like a shower, either. I felt like a Neanderthal. I quickly undressed. The wind blew, the long grass nodded in the wind. Summer was getting on and the grass was dry now, yellowing, no flowers in it but the little white heads of the lacefoam. A woman came walking up the hill towards him through the long grass. She followed no path, and walked easily, without haste. It grew darker quickly. A haze was coming up from the south, blotting out the sky. Only above the huge, dim bulk of the mountain did stars burn clearly. Wind whistled in the reeds, soft, dismal. Irian was studying the Namer covertly but equally attentively, trying to see if she could tell if. "I'll stay here if I may," he said in that princely way, with his teeth chattering, holding on to the doorjamb to keep on his feet. "Got that from under Losen's nose too," he said to Tern.
